SPDU Facilitator Series Day One

There are many roles that a facilitator of learning will experience when working with adults, ranging from a collaborator to presenter to facilitator to coach. There are many skills that are common to all roles and some skills that are specific to only some. The day is designed to focus on both the skills and art of communication when working with colleagues.

So that instructional leaders have the opportunity to assist staff effectively.

So that students receive even more effective instruction and learning opportunities.
